THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY EVENING, SEPT. 17. HORRORS OF CIVIL WAR.

[From the London Standard ] The following extract from a letter addressed by the Carlist General Castella to Colonel de Charette, is handed to us by the London Carlist Committee for publication. The writer had command of the fortifications at Villareal during the recent engagement : "I have during my life witnessed some very sad scenes of war, and I thought I had seen the summit of human misery in the retreat of James M. Marshall, the Army of the East in 1870, of which I commanded the rear guard. But I cannot recall any impression which can be compared with the feeling which I experienced on entering W. A. Martin, with Brigadier Valuerca the principal street of Robt. M. Stribling, Villareal, when it was on fire from one end to the other. The crackling of the flames, whose red glare struggled against the light of the mid-day sun, the heavy crash of wintows giv ing away and of roofs falling in, the shricks of frienzed women, and the cries of the children who ran with their bare feet on the ashes, the grim despair of the old men as they g: z d with a dry eye and a fixed stare upon the scene, the imprecations of the Carlist soldiers as parties of them rushed in hot pursuit of the incendiaries, the rattle of the muskerry, all formed a horrible spectacle which baffles description.

"I saw in a side street between two burning houses, a woman lying stretched out on a mattress, surrounded by little children, half naked who were uttering piercing cries. The armosphere was unbearable. The flames all but licked the paths, the burning ruins were falling down on all sides quite close to them; and this family, abandoned in the confusion, were about to be either roasted or crushed. I got off my horse, which was dreadfully frightened by the flames and the noise around, and I went up to where the sick woman lay. She was paralyzed. Her husband, a mule-driver, was away. Some soldiers had carried her out of the house before setting fire to it. The only thing left her-and that by mere good luck - was the mattress on which she was lying. The heat was becoming more and more intense; their faces were crimson; the children, in their agony, redoubled their shrieks; their poor mother, as she looked at them, weeping and calling the Holy Virgin to her aid. What could be more heartrending than this picture, framed as it were in fire?"

THE MINERAL BUREAU.

The Bureau just established at Alexandria by the railroad companies to aid in developing the iron and other mineral resources of Virginia and promoting home metallurgical industries, will be open for the receipt and public display of samples on and after the first of September next

For the guidance of those who wish to avail themselves of the advantages which this institution offers, the following items of information

First: It will not undertake to negotiate the purchase or sale of any lands or minerals. In its operation it will be confined mainly to displaying the samples sent to it, and publishing all important information in relation thereto communicated by the senders, acting in the matter as a gratuitous exhibitor and advertiser to the best of its ability, for public benefit. Second: Each sample intended for display should be as near as possible a truthful average of the mass of mineral from which it was taken, and in quantity sufficient to fill a box measuring just one cubic foot. should be a signify one, smooth on the outside, and fit to be placed on exhibition. Its lid should be screwed on, not nailed, to avoid breaking or defacing in opening. Third: Each box should be distinctly marked on its lid thus: (ORE FOR EXH'BITI'N.)

Virginia Mineral Bureau, Alexandria, Va.

And if delivered to the railroad agent at any of the established way stations, or to the baggage the established way stations, or to the baggage master on board of any passenger train on the Washington City, Virginia Midland and Great Southern Railroad, or any road connecting therewith, will be transported directly to its destination free of charge, out without any liability for damage, loss or delay. All the roads in the State, it is believed, will immediately unite in this arrangement. When any box is so sent the Bureau should be notified thereof through the mail by the sender.

Fourth: Within each box, and securely enveloped to prevent soiling, there should be a statement, written in a distinct, bold hand, setting forth [first] the name and postoffice address of the sender, [second] the exact location of the land from which the mineral was taken, and the probable quantity of mineral upon it, or the probable quantity of mineral upon it, or the thickness, length and breadth of the deposits, so far as ascertained, and [third] whether or not the property is offered for sale, and if so offered. such other information as a person desiring to purchase would be apt to ask for.

Fifth: Each box, as it is received, will be opened, labeled and placed for display in its appropriate position in the exhibition chamber, and the written statement found within it will be inscribed in a general record book, which will always be open to the public for reference. An appropriate notice of each sample will be at once handed for publication to each of the newspapers in Alexandria.

Sixth: The exhibition chamber will be kept open to the public daily, Sundays and public holidays excepted, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. It will be the duty of the attendant to be courteous to visitors, and afford them every opp runnity to inspect the samples on display to inspect the samples on display and obtain whatever information in relation thereto of whatever information in relation thereto of which the Bureau has possession. It will also be his duty to carefully protect the samples from being broken, mutilated or removed; but this rule will not apply to prevent limited average portions from being taken, according to special directions, for analysis.
